Literacy News

Dear Parents,

Welcome to 2012 Literacy News. I have commenced my new role as Literacy Leader and I'm very happy that Suzanne Roberts who has been in this role for a number of years, is still here and happy to support me.

The start of the school has been very busy but in a different way to what I'm used to. I have to admit I felt unusual on the first day because the prep children and parents didn't need to ask me any questions or tell me any details about their child.

However, I am getting used to my new role and enjoying it. Literacy testing across the school is well underway and the teachers are using the results to drive their teaching.

I will be attending Professional Development days during the year for New Literacy Leaders and Literacy Clusters. Much of the information I gain from these days will be shared with the teachers and will be used in the classroom and to discuss and examine best practice.

I'll keep you informed of all Literacy news. If anyone has any queries please come and see me. My office is my sister (Jill Cannon's) old office which is down the senior end of the school.

Cheers,

Maree Thomas
